NAUTICAL FACT OF THE DAY

BULBOUS BOW

A bulbous bow is a feature of many modern ship hulls. It is characterized by a protruding bulb at the bow (or front) of the ship below the waterline. Due to this, a bulbous bow is usually only visible when a ship is in drydock. The presence of this bulb modifies how water flows around the hull, thereby reducing drag and affording an increase in speed, range, and fuel efficiency. In ships that have had bulbous bows fitted, gains in fuel efficiency of between 12-15% are standard. As these factors are particularly important for almost all applications of maritime vessels, bulbous bows have seen widespread adoption since their development.
